

Emergency Pesach Campaign

written by Yossi Katz

March 30, 2020

For hundreds of years, Chassidic communities of Israel have sent delegates to the United States and other countries in order to solicit funds for the needy. The funds collected have always been critical especially before Pesach when parents must not only provide matzos and meat for Pesach, but also purchase once a year goods like clothing and shoes. But now, due to the recent travel ban, for the first time, these communities will not be able to solicit these crucial funds. Furthermore, Corona has devastated the Israeli economy and many more are in need of funds than in previous years!

What will these children eat on Pesach? Will parents be forced to tell their young ones that they can't afford their once a year purchase of clothing and shoes?

The Breslov Research Institute with our worldwide reach has been tasked by leading Breslov Rabbinic leaders such as Rav Yaakov Meir Shechter, Rav Moshe Kramer and Rav Shimon Shapira to rise to the challenge of sustaining the Breslov community during these trying times.
