The Exchanged Children, Class 2

written by Chaya Rivka Zwolinski
July 18, 2019

Call-in and listen: The Exchanged Children lesson, Part 2

(Next class, Wednesday July 24th at 1 pm NY time, for more information scroll for call-in instructions)

Class 2 Rebbe Nachman's story The Exchanged Children. With both personal and cosmic relevance, this story describes the cognitive (and intuitive) dissonance we feel as we go about our lives. As we explore some of the Kabbalistic elements and psychospiritual themes in this story, we'll open the door to personal self-discovery, relief from existential anxiety, and our true-joy potential.

Beginning Wednesday, July 10th, join BRI Women's Chaya Rivka Zwolinski for a convenient class from the comfort of your home or office.

Break with Breslov

Learn Rebbe Nachman's Life-changing Teachings via Phone

Sponsored by Dr. Eleonora Goudis in Honor of Her Family

We'll be reading and learning Rebbe Nachman's story The Exchanged Children. With both personal and cosmic relevance, this story describes the cognitive (and intuitive) dissonance we feel as we go about our lives. As we explore some of the Kabbalistic elements and psychospiritual themes in this story, we'll open the door to personal self-discovery, relief from existential anxiety, and our true-joy potential.

Don't miss this opportunity for inspiration and conversation!

Four Wednesdays, beginning July 10th at 1:00 PM (NY time).

This class will begin with listening to the story and teachings. There will be time at the end for questions and discussion depending how many people are on the call.

For phone access from the USA call (712) 770-4598 and enter this pin number (144097) when prompted followed by the #. From Israel, call +972 55-966-1101. For other country call in numbers, text/whatsapp 917-348-1573 or email crzbreslov@gmail.com for more information.