

In Honor of Purim

written by Ozer Bergman
February 24, 2011

So, we all know Rebbe Nachman said (Likutey Moharan II, Lesson #78), “Never give up! There’s no such thing as despair!” And Purim was—and is—living proof of that.

So, I was thinking: Let's put together a list of quotes that "show once again" that there really is no reason to give up, that salvation and rescue can really happen at the last of the last moments. The quote can be from a book, a movie (whatever that is), a sporting event or a song (clean lyrics only!). (In Hebrew, salvation and rescue are yeshuah and hatzalah, respectively.)

You can even share such a quote from your own life or make one up.

I'll start. (Hey! It's my idea.) Mets and baseball fans will remember this: Game 6 of the 1986 World Series, bottom of the 10th. (Don't ask me how I know!)

"Here comes Knight, and the Mets win it!"

Your turn.

© Copyright 2011 Breslov Research Institute