It is with great happiness that we announce that the final volume of Likutei Moharan has just been printed. It was only due to your generosity and encouragement that we were able to see this 30+ year project through to the end. We are forever indebted to all of those who contributed and may it be an everlasting merit for them and their families.

On October 28, 2012, Jews of all stripes will stand together in celebration of this monumental achievement and bring recognition to a wondrous body of knowledge now available for the taking.

We hope that you can join us at the Siyum and invite you to reserve a page in our dinner journal. If you are unable to attend the dinner, your contribution to the journal will be a great zechus for yourself or a loved one. We intend to broadcast the Siyum live over the web.

Thank you for joining us in this historic celebration. I look forward to welcoming you.

Sincerely,

Chaim Kramer
