This week on BreslovCampus, Meir Elkabas discusses the Torah portion, Parshat Vayekhel and Shabbat Shekalim, with insights from Rebbe Nachman of Breslov. In this parsha, the Torah shows us that even without the sin of the golden calf, it was destined that they would need a tabernacle to collect and store all the holy energy. Reb Meir explains that the nature of a Jewish person is that when his or her sins are forgiven, he or she is more willing to donate tzedakah, charity.
