

Talking to Myself about the Parsha

written by Ozer Bergman

October 14, 2009

“God looked into the Torah and created the world” (Zohar 2:161b).

Day One: Light and dark.

Second Day: Upper waters and lower waters.

Third Day: Seas and Continents/Dry Land; vegetation.

God names/labels things and puts them where they belong.

Maybe if I made a plan and organized my life I would also be able to accomplish something. Actually, the Zohar continues: Man looks into the Torah and maintains the world. Hmm. I should pay better attention.